Author: Chernysh Vladimir Viktorovich

Supervisor of studies: N.N. Kiselyova, doctor of economic sciences, professor, chair of economic theory (economics)

Customer organization: Pyatigorsk administration as the lawmaking assembly of Pyatigorsk engaged in the development, consideration and adoption of municipal legal acts, organizations and approval.

Topicality of the research is conditioned by the fact that small business is one of the most important factor largely determining the pace of the economic growth, the state of population employment structure and quality of the YNP. The development of small business corresponds to the general world tendencies towards the formation of the flexible mixed economy, combination of different forms of property and the adequate models of the economy realizing the complex synthesis of the competitive market mechanism and state regulation of big medium-sized and small business. And if big business is the framework, the axis of the modern economy, all the variety, though of small medium-sized business are the muscles, the living tissue of the economic organism. The selection of the subject matter is also connected with the fact that despite the numerous laws, regulations and decrees on the development of small and medium sized business in Russia adopted by the state and municipal bodies, in practice however, the share of small business starting with the second half of the 90-s and in the beginning of the 2000-s remarks practically on one and the same level roughly 860 thousand small businesses + - 5 to 10 thousand in various years producing 10-12% of Russia’s YDP.

Objective of the research is the discovery of the most perspective forms and methods of the support of small business on the municipal level.

Tasks: complex study of the municipal administration on the example of Pyatigorsk administration and also the consideration and development of the model of the municipal regulation of small business.

Theoretical and practical significance of the research is based on the studies in the field of management theory, sociology, psychology, economics labor law. In the course of the work we used the general scientific methods, analysis and synthesis, analogy, abstraction, extrapolation of tendencies, historical and logical methods of cognition and also methods of comparative evaluation and observation.

Results of the research enable us to draw the following conclusion. There exists the need for the creation of a new normative and legal basis that will enable them to create the local authority with more effective capacity for work with the required mechanisms which will make it possible to improve the effectiveness of the economic, social and political sphere of the town.

Recommendations: In order to introduce all the innovations and solve all the problems the government should create the most favorable conditions for the development of business, to give Russian big and small businesses access to the financial staff and innovative resources both inside the country and outside it. In the domestic economy there are a lot of competitive “development areas” and branches. The work of the government should be directed at their support. In my opinion it is essential to elaborate the constructive mechanism of the interaction between business and state and a special consultative Committee on competitiveness and entrepreneurship is in the process of its formation whose job will be the development of the program on the elimination of barriers for growth of entrepreneurial activity, connect up business to the solution of state strategic tasks. State and business should together realize the large-scale projects.
